DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. The indicated allowability of claims 9 and 13 is withdrawn in view of WO 00/79298 Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-4, 6-9, 10 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Fox et al in view of WO 00/79298 (WO '298).

Fox et al anticipates a method of manufacturing a device (as a magnetoresistive device, further as a sensing device) with a magnetic layer-structure. There is formed the magnetic layer-structure, then heating the structure with an electrical current having a duration (shorter than 100 ms) such that the electrical current is a pulse having a duration such that no substantial heat transfer from the layer-structure outside the pinning areas takes place, so that the temperature of the pinning layers before and after the current pulse is substantially the same. The pulse is used to select a physical process in the laser-structure, the duration and amplitude of the pulse being adapted to the activation energy of the physical process. Increases in the amplitude of the pulse and decreases of the pulse duration are disclosed. (col 3, lines 66 - 67; col 4, lines 1-13; col 11, lines 7-50.

Regarding the recitation of "the environment", such is inherent to Fox et al. As an alternative interpretation, such would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art because Fox teaches not heating any associated structure outside the pinning layers.

Regarding recitations of claims 9 and 13 that were indicated as allowable, since WO '298 teaches current change as changing physical processes (page 3, lines 19-23), such would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include to Fox et al to obtain the effective result desired.

4. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fox et al as applied to claims above, and further in view of Voegeli et al.

Fox et al does not disclose a sequence of current pulses.

Voegeli et al discloses a sequence of pluses (col 3, lines 51-60; col 7, lines 2-11, 35-58; col 9, lines 34-48).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include a sequence of pluses because Voegeli et al teaches that multiple pluses may be required to achieve the desired effect.

5. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fox et al as applied to claims above, and further in view of WO 00/79298 (Kuiper et al.).

Fox et al does not disclose several magnetoresistive devices further in at least four magnetoresistive devices arranged in a Wheatstone bridge configuration.

Kuiper et al discloses multiple devices including a Wheatstone bridge configuration (p 6, lines 33 to p 7, line 33; p 12, lines 12-17).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include several magnetoresistive devices further in at least four magnetoresistive devices arranged in a Wheatstone bridge configuration for the purpose of desired configuration requiring functionality.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
